The new model will look to take on the Toyota Fortuner as a larger sized family SUV. Even though the size difference will be small the body styling will look different from the previous model. The new vehicle will incorporate larger wheel arches and more pronounced wheel flares. New Interior The dashboard will have larger air vents and new instrument panel. The interior colours will be a variety of new and modern choices. The 3 row seating is still set up in an L shape, but the captain seats now have extra room to slide forward to make leg room in the second row. Engine The new Canyon will have the same 2.8 litre turbodiesel engine that powers the previous model, but the output will be improved. The UK will be getting an entry level model as will be a version for the Australian market. The US will get the same 3.6 litre petrol and diesel engine option as the previous model. Conclusion The Canyon will be built in USA and Canada but GMC plans to begin manufacturing them in Singapore as well. The new truck will be available
