We report the case of a young Chinese woman, who was a known case of fibrous dysplasia since she was 5 years old. The patient presented to the outpatient clinic with increasing pain in her left fibula for the past 2 years. Clinical assessment showed there was increased soft-tissue swelling in the lower part of the left leg. Plain radiographs of the left leg showed a destructive change in the lower left tibia, with a new lytic lesion in the left distal femur. Computed tomography showed a destructive lesion in the distal part of the left femur and iliac crest, and a focal sclerotic lesion in the left os calcis. Biopsy showed the lesion to be fibrous dysplasia. The patient was treated by intralesional curettage of both fibro-osseous lesion in the tibia and distal femur. The patient's pain subsided after the surgery. Surgical excision is the treatment of choice for fibrous dysplasia of bone. The lesion can recur, but only at the site of prior curettage.A. Guo, D.R.
